

RAIN FOR CLASS DAY

Steady Downpour Interfered Much with the Scheduled Programme for Monday.

EXERCISES IN GYMNASIUM

Senior Walk Postponed until Tuesday Morning and Dedication of Athletic Field until a Later Date—Receptions in the Afternoon and Promenade in Evening.

A rainy day was the weather-man's gift to the graduating class of the university Monday and a result part of the class day programme was postponed and the remainder held indoors. The class walk was postponed until Tuesday morning. The spacious floor of the gymnasium was necessarily substituted for the College Green for the class day exercises in the afternoon. The deep disappointment of the members of the senior class and their friends.

Shortly after two o'clock the graduates, led by the class marshal and president, marched into the hall to the music of Wilder's orchestra, which furnished the music for the day. President Harley W. Heath of Montpelier delivered the president's address, discussing the relations existing between the senior class and the faculty, alumni and under class men. He also made farewell to the college walls which had sheltered the class for the past four years. The orchestra gave another selection, after which Harry C. Hicks of Burlington gave a history of the class and some of its members since the first meeting in the chapel, pointing especially to the record of the class on the athletic field and in the class room.

In the absence of Leslie H. Newton of Alburgh, the boulder oration was read by Richard T. Patterson of Newbury Ctr. The writer traced the course of the boulder from its home in the far north to the present place of honor which it occupies on the College Green. Mr. Patterson then read the names of the 10 men from the present junior class who have been elected to membership for the coming year. They are: H. G. Fuller of Burlington, N. D. Hulet of Granville, N. Y., E. L. Kirby of N. Randolph, J. C. O'Neill of Granville, N. Y., R. M. Perry of Westford, M. L. Peck of Burlington, W. C. Simpson of Greenboro, R. H. Skinner of East Land, and A. C. Woodard of Taunton, Mass.

After another selection by the orchestra, Isidor Goldwyn of Brooklyn delivered the campus oration, and touched on the feeling that every student has for the college campus, its place in the life of the student, and the class spirit, athletic contests and student pranks it witnessed each year. Miss Alice Durfee read the class poem, which was as follows:

CLASS POEM.

Within the heart of every striving youth
Who wakes to life's fair opportunity,
Doth lurk, hid from the common gaze
The purpose of true nobility.

The highest end is not great wealth to gain,
Nor even yet for wide renown to sue;
If that were all, our tasks indeed were vain,
Our ideals hopeless, our attainments few.

To some of us perchance, Fate may decree
A place of high estate, with honors rife,
But yet, for each and all who will,
The guerdons of a pure and noble life.

The band of men and women strong
And true
Who spite of hardships dire have gathered here
Have worked and struggled with this end in view,
To grow in strength and wisdom every year.

The end for which we strove these long years,
Is not past attained when our degrees were won,
The end is not yet reached till at the last
The lessons in the school of life are done.

The years we've spent within these classic walls
Are but the gate which opens to the way
Of life's broad path, where duty calls
To action in the thickest of life's fray.

The coming of a page of classic lore
And seeking out Minerva's fairest store,
The delving into science's richest store,
The solving of some baffling theorem;

Are but first lessons in the school of life,
Where deeper truths than these are ours to learn,
Where only patient efforts wins the strife,
Where naught but service priceless truths earn.

As winged bird far upward through the blue
Speeds onward ever toward the blazing sun,
Nor stops nor stays, till from our mortal view
The last faint trace through trackless space is gone.

So we, like ancient Seer, will follow on
Led by the lodestar of ambition high
On fluttering wing of boundless hope
Till God's best gift within our grasp shall lie.

The class pipes were then passed around and amid the smoke George W. Ainsworth of South Royalton gave the pipe oration, which contained many good-natured grins at the members of the class.

The subject of the class essay by Miss Chapman of Sutton was "Something About Something." She contrasted "something" with "nothing" and spoke of the sacrifices of time and money made by the student for the acquirement of knowledge; the sacrifice of hours of case to get an education. The one thing beyond all other things is the power of a broad ideal in our life which brings us near to the best things of life and the ultimate highest success.

Charles A. Smith of Rutland gave the address to the undergraduates, showing some of their failure and counseling them to work hard, to always praise their college, and to strive to make it the best college possible.

The programme closed with the ivy oration by Martin W. Chaffee of Morrisville. Mr. Chaffee drew lessons from the growth of the ivy, and said that true success did not come to one until he stood on his own resources and could stand without support.

Following the exercises the members of the class received their class books, which are the same as in former years.

The committee in charge of class day are H. V. Allen of So. Shaftsbury, chairman, T. R. Barrett of Adams, Mass., Miss E. W. Chapman of Sutton, A. S. Eastman of New Haven, F. T. Wyman of Manchester, H. V. Allen, class marshal.

ALUMNAE RECEPTION.

From four till six o'clock in the afternoon the Alumnae club of the University tendered a reception at Grassmount to the ladies and women graduates of the university and the ladies of the faculty. The rooms were tastefully decorated with colorful flowers of green and gold. Because of the inclement weather the attendance was not as large as was hoped. Those present were received by Miss Effie Moore, president of the club, Mrs. M. H. Buckham, Mrs. M. F. Norton and Miss Florence Burdick. Refreshments were served.

SIGMA PHI RECEPTION.

The members of the Sigma Phi society tendered a reception to the graduating class and friends at Sigma Phi place, from four to six o'clock, which was largely attended by members of the class and the visiting alumni.

THE SENIOR PROMENADE.

The senior promenade, which is always one of the most enjoyable events of commencement week, was held in the Billings library building in the evening and was no exception to the general rule, since all things seemed to unite for one end, the pleasure of the many dancers. Nature herself, after a few days of rain, relented somewhat, giving the dancers weather which, in temperature, at least, was all that could be desired. Music was furnished by Wilder's orchestra of Montpelier.

The reception committee consisted of Prof. and Mrs. J. E. Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Whitling, Miss Emma Bean and Fred B. Wright. The promenade committee was composed of Fred Bonar Wright, Charles Arthur Smith, Leslie Hunt Newton, George West Ainsworth and Miss Emma Potter Bean. The artistic dance orders were issued and had an engraving of the Billings library on the front cover. After a grand march at 8:30, following the orchestra programme, dancing continued until one o'clock. After the last dance, so great and general had been the pleasure of the evening, the merry-makers reluctantly left the hall, leaving all praise for the promenade of 1905 and the committee which had charge of it.

FUTURE PLANS OF GRADUATES.

Many members of the senior class have already decided on their life work as follows: Health, law school; Beckley, Cross, Austin & Ireland Lumber Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Hulet, Columbia Marble Co., Rutland; Worthen, New York city; Ward, Newton, Mott and Eastman, Broomfield; Colodny, Brooklyn; Whitcomb, post-graduate work; Allen, farm manufacturing; Helyar, Ainsworth, Chapman, Campbell and Bates, agriculture; Buchanan and Blackford, Westinghouse Co., Pittsburgh; Wright and Billings, General Electric Co., Schenectady, Washington, N. CHARACTER BUILDING.

Subject of Rev. Dr. Brown's Sermon at Y. M. C. A. Anniversary.

The services in commemoration of the anniversary of the University of Vermont Y. M. C. A., held Sunday evening at the First Church, were largely attended. Dr. Perkins, president of the University Y. M. C. A., presided. The order was as follows:

Prelude, Allegretto Giazono, Vest Hymn.

Evening Lesson, The Rev. G. G. Atkins, Hymn.

Tenor Duet, Peace to Thy Dwelling.

Address, The Rev. George W. Brown, D. D., pastor of the Methodist Church.

Prayer and Benediction, President Matthew H. Buckham.

Postlude, Offertory, The Rev. Dr. Perkins, giving an address "Character Building," giving an interesting, inspiring and very practical discourse. The speaker said that the three chief elements of character are heredity, environment and choice, but all of the peculiarities which go to make up the eclectic thing termed character, heredity, while a precious and important constituent in character building is not everything. Taking up the next element, the speaker said that the myriad of things which go to make up our environment find crystallization in character.

The fact that some of the greatest and best characters the world has known have been found in men with the disadvantages of a depraved heredity and environment, emphasizes the importance of the third great element—choice. It has been said that character is the result of reiterated choice between good and evil and all laws presuppose that men are free to keep them. The greatest asset a man or woman has is personality or character and character can be acquired by no means except building.

MASS OF SORES

Awful Suffering of Little Boy from an Itching Humour CURED BY CUTICURA

Not One Square Inch of Skin on His Whole Body Unaffected

"My little son, a boy of five, broke out with an itching rash. Three doctors prescribed for him, but he kept getting worse until we could not keep him any more. They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did no good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura he was so bad that I had to cut his hair off and put the Cuticura Ointment on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was a mass of sores. The bandages used to stick to his skin and in removing them it used to take the skin off with them, and the screams from the poor child were heart-breaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of Cuticura Ointment I began to see signs of improvement, and with the third and fourth applications the sores commenced to dry up. His skin peeled off twenty times, but it finally yielded to the treatment. Now I can say that he is entirely cured, and a stronger and healthier boy than ever was than he is to-day." ROBERT WATTAM, 4922 Center Ave., Chicago, Ill., Dec. 30, 1897.

Mr. Wattam writes

"Your letter of the 21st in regard to the case of my little boy at hand. I am truly thankful to say that the cure effected by the Cuticura Remedies has been a most thorough and successful one."

AN EPISODE OF BIRD-LIFE

A lady friend, journeying in the Adirondacks permits us to print a pretty little ornithological idyll which was composed under her eyes. Two pairs, one of robins the other of chipping sparrows, had built nests in vine on or near the cottage in which she abided for a few days.

The sparrows, which are still sitting on their eggs in her nest in the vine, it is the funniest sight I have ever seen. The first time Mrs. Robin came to the chippy's nest I was afraid she meant mischief; for she was only being neighborly. Her nest is not very far away from the baby-bird's home and every time she gets off her nest to rest she brings back some dainty for her neighbor's babies. Sometimes she goes and comes many times, and I have worried a bit, lest her eggs get cold. I hope not for she certainly deserves a large family of healthy children. The chippies were not so much surprised by Mrs. Robin's action. At first they were pretty mad about it, and mamma chippy jumped right on the robin's back one day and gave her a good pecking, but what good did it do? That robin came right with another warm and fed it to Mrs. Chippy, herself!

"The tiny mother got back on her nest after she had pecked the officious robin thinking no doubt it was the best way to stop proceedings and when Mrs. Robin appeared at the nest she never stirred. Mrs. Robin stood a few moments looking at her and making soft little noises, and then since she refused to stir to my amazement, she stooped over the little chippy mamma and offered her the worm and to my surprise Mrs. Chippy sparrow took and ate the worm and seemed to relish it.

ALUMNI DAY

Rain again Interfered with Exercises of University of Vermont Commencement.

THE CENTENNIAL FUND

Class Walk, Meeting of Phi Beta Kappa Society, Alumni Meeting and Breakfast, Dedication of New Medical College among Events of a Busy Day.

Dame nature deigning to smile for a short time Tuesday morning, the members of the graduating class went on their postponed class walk. Shortly after eight o'clock about thirty members of the class assembled on the library steps and marched to Lafayette's statue, which they clothed with the customary cap and gown. The class was next planted on the west side of the Billings library, each member of the class assisting in the planting. The class then made calls on Professors Goodrich, Merrill, Hills, Votey, Emerson, Stetson, Daniels, Jones, Brett and Butterfield. Each professor had some parting advice to give, some incidents to relate or some stories to tell, and all wished the students the best of success.

PHI BETA KAPPA.

Following the class walk Tuesday morning, the annual meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa society of the university was held. The report of the treasurer, Dr. Lyman Allen, was read and accepted, showing that the finances of the society were in good condition. The principal business was the election of officers for the ensuing year. With one exception the officers for the past year were re-elected. Miss Lucy F. Burdick found it necessary to resign as corresponding secretary, owing to her absence from the country, and Miss E. Mabel Brownell was elected to fill her place. The officers for the year are therefore as follows:

President—Prof. J. E. Goodrich, '53.
Vice-president—J. H. Converse, '61.
Registrar—The Rev. G. W. Bliss, D. D., '59.

Corresponding secretary—E. Mabel Brownell, '91.
Treasurer—Dr. Lyman Allen, '93.

Following the business meeting the members of the senior class who were on Monday evening elected members of the society were initiated. The initiates were: Roy Orville Buchanan, E. E. May Louis Clifford, C. L. Alice Marston, L. S. Martha Reynolds, L. K. Sylvia Sophia Shilcock, L. S. Mabel Louise Southwick, C. L. Ralph Piper Ward, Ch.

Leon Herbert Sault was not initiated Tuesday, because of absence from the city, but will be admitted into the society later.

The secretary called attention to the desirability of mailing notices of the annual meetings and dues to the members. The suggestion was favorably received, and after some discussion the following by-law, offered by R. D. Benedict, was adopted, viz: The annual dues of the association are fixed at one dollar, and it shall be the duty of the secretary and treasurer to issue notices of the annual meeting and dues, to each member of the association.

The Hon. Robert D. Benedict, submitted the following report on the annual representation, submitted the following report:

To the Associate Alumni of the University of Vermont:

The committee appointed in the year 1899 to suggest if advisable, a different plan for alumni representation on the board of trustees of the university, respectfully report as follows:

That they, having considered the present plan under which action is taken in the filling of vacancies in the board of trustees of the university, have not been able to suggest any plan which they could recommend to the associate alumni as a substitute for the plan now in use, and, therefore, respectfully ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

Lawrence moved that a committee of five, to report at the next annual meeting, be appointed by the president of the association to confer with the trustees of the university in regard to the method of representation of the alumni of the University of Vermont on the board of trustees, and to gather information respecting the representation of alumni upon the governing boards of other institutions similar to our own. The motion was adopted and the president was given further time to prepare the committee.

On motion the meeting was then adjourned.

ALUMNI BREAKFAST.

Progress Reported on the Centennial Fund—Brief speeches.

The alumni breakfast was held, as usual, in the gymnasium. The members sat down at 12:30 p. m. A substantial breakfast, prepared by Caterer F. W. Hatch, was served by Prof. R. F. Emerson of the university.

Charles A. Catlin rapped for order at 1:30 p. m. He congratulated the university on its splendid centennial exercises, and presented the evidence of the present prosperity of the new medical building, the coming Morrill hall, the new athletic field, the increased support given to the endowment fund, the loyalty of the alumni to all of the interests of the university.

He called upon the Rev. George W. Winch, a member of the class that graduated 35 years ago.

Mr. Winch accepted gracefully the humorous introduction of Mr. Catlin, referred to the fact that though the number of the university are fewer in numbers than at some other institutions, they easily held their own in competition with the graduates of any institution in the country. He called upon all to continue to reverse and to increase the power of the university.

Mr. Catlin introduced the next speaker, a member of the class of 1855, the Rev. A. W. Clark, D. D., as somewhat of a "Bohemian," but still a loyal alumnus. Dr. Clark has been a missionary in Bohemia for 30 years or more. He referred to the fact that at this, the second commencement which he had attended in 33 years, he found himself the only member of his class, though there were a few familiar faces of college mates. He extolled the fame and reputation of the University of Vermont, which is known throughout the world.

Ex-Governor Woodbury was called upon, as the representative of the State. However, as a medical alumnus of the university, he wished to call attention to the close connection which the medical department bears to the other parts of the university, and he felt that the call upon him to respond was a recognition of
